Woosh

This is a whole new level of stress.

I'm glad I checked where the college is located yesterday...

This is the first time I've gone somewhere completely on my own, after all.

Don't worry.

Fufu...

Don't worry.

Going to Tokyo from the countryside by yourself to take exams is harder than I thought!!

Urk

Huff

I haven't made any mistakes so far.

Oh man...

I'm getting nervous again.

Badum

Badum

Badum...

All these people are taking entry exams for K-Women's College.

Good morning!

Hey~

Yamada!

Had any trouble catching your train yesterday?

The ninth floor.

Which room?

Even now I don't really... I was surprised by how many lines there were!

We only have one JR line back home.

Which floor?

Is that the hotel you were staying at?

It seems her college training has already started.

And I haven't even been accepted yet.

The ninth.

Translation Note: JR is short for Japan Railways

I'm so relieved!

Phew

Yamada?

Look.

Your hands are definitely cold.

Oh, but I'm kind!

I left them at home!

I must've been too nervous when I left to notice...

Don't worry, Yamada.

The course is the only thing I see...

Normally, when I'm taking part in another tournament, I'm always worried about the other runners.

But that's only until it actually starts.

Once the referee says
"On your marks"

because the track ahead of me is mine and mine alone.

That's why I know you'll be fine

I practised my hardest,
so all that's left to do is run my hardest.

You just need to run your hardest
too.

This is just like an Interhigh.

A

You're our school's plant appointee

Don't lose, Yamada!

Alright!

I'm gonna keep running around this area until your exams are done!

Contact me when you're finished, okay!?

You can borrow one of my gloves.

I'm not gonna lose!

That's what thought
